Dear Tenants:

We would like to inform you that Ewen Ross will forthwith be addressed as Elder Ross, as he was recently baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints. As a born again Mormon he has vowed to abstain from smoking, drinking and sleeping in on Sundays.

While we certainly have no objections to Elder Ross's newfound faith we must warn you: He will be knocking on your door to give you a copy of the Book of Mormon and a four week presentation on the "one true church of God." Those unwilling to see the light may find that the lights in their apartment stop working – along with the water, heat, cable and telephone.

Elder Ross is also organizing an Easter Pageant at 11AM this morning on William St. He has cast Alan Mailloux, from unit 7, in the role of Jesus. Alan was chosen for two obvious reasons: 1) He has a beard. 2) He, like Jesus, is in the bread distribution business.

Larry Stacey (unit 9) will play the role of Pontius Pilate, as he looks a bit like a stately Roman governor. The trail will be conducted from the porch above the garage. The garage itself will be used as a sepulcher for the final resurrection scene.

Gail Stacey, our retired nursing professor, will be running a blood donor clinic out of her apartment until 10:30AM. The plasma will be transfused into Alan after the crucifixion scene which will take place on the small hill in front of the building. If necessary, we also have a defibrillator on standby. Elder Ross has taken every precaution (or at least quite a few) to ensure (but not guarantee) this is a safe and fun Easter for all (with the possible exception of Alan).

Sincerely,

Jason & Diana

P.S. If you do not wish to encourage the superintendent in his religious zeal then, instead of calling him by his new ecclesiastic title of Elder, you may try using his nickname from the local pub of Mouse. Combined with his superintendent position, we might call him Super Mouse. This could possibly bring back the old Ewen Ross and spare Alan the risk of suffering severe blood loss today.
